Fill in the order form and then click the Send button.

The screenshot shows the 'Order Document' form on the ScienceDirect website. The form is titled 'Order Document' and includes instructions: 'Follow the steps below to order your document. The document will be provided for your personal research use and on the condition that you agree not to make further copies for systematic distribution.' The form is divided into two main sections: 'Verify your document below:' and 'Enter your contact information and special instructions below (* = required field)'. The 'Verify your document below:' section contains the article title 'A case study of land reform and coastal land transformation in southern Sonora, Mexico', the journal 'Land Use Policy, Volume 23, Issue 4, October 2006, Pages 436-447', and the authors 'Amy L. Luers, Rosamond L. Naylor, Pamela A. Matson'. The 'Enter your contact information...' section includes fields for First Name, Family Name, E-mail Address, Mailing Address, City, State / Province (with a note '(required for Canada/US users)'), Postal (Zip) Code, Country, Phone Number (with a note '(including country code)'), and Fax Number. There is also a 'Special Instructions' text area. At the bottom of the form, there is a 'Send' button and a 'Cancel' link. A red circle highlights the 'Send' button. Below the form, there is a note: 'When placing individual document orders, please include all the information requested above. Incomplete information will delay processing of your order. Availability of documents is subject to all legal copyright restrictions.' and another note: 'Note: The information you submit could be observed by a third party while in transit. Use this form at your own risk.'

In most cases, requests will be filled in one to five business days.
