

2017 Annual Report of Giving

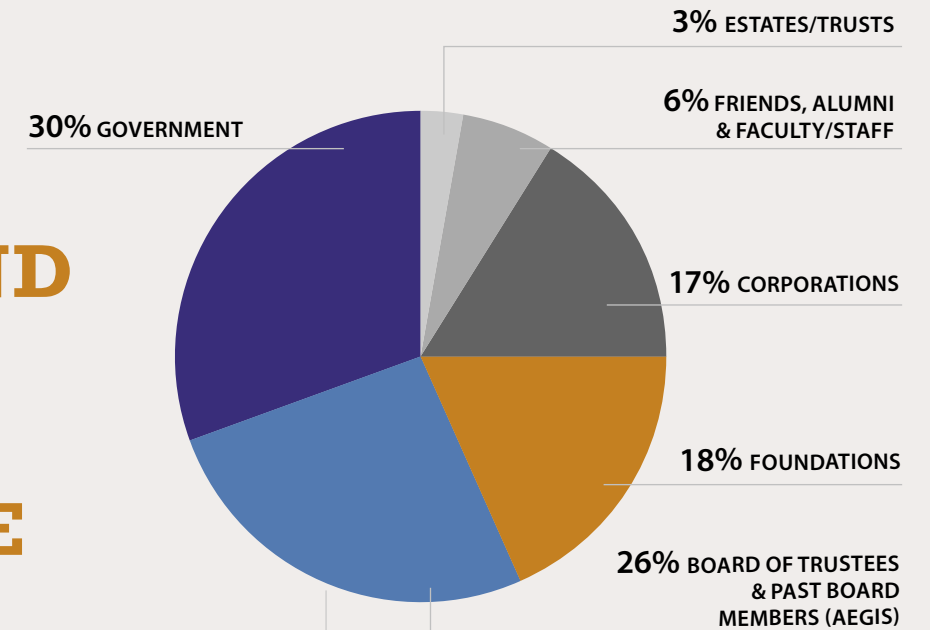

As we continued to implement the initiatives of the “Sustaining the Promise” strategic plan, generous donors from all corners of our community stepped forward to support the College’s mission and initiatives.

Collectively, this generosity resulted in $1.7 million raised in cash gifts, and an additional $7.1 million in multi-year pledges during Fiscal Year 2016-17.

While the year featured several large leadership gifts, the College remains equally thankful for and proud of the philanthropy expressed by the hundreds of alumni, friends, parents, foundations, and corporations who joined us in support of the Annual Fund, scholarships, and other special projects.

Here are some highlights of how these generous gifts are working to place the College on a sustainable path of excellence.

Academics

The College embarked upon a $5 million campaign to create the Center for Nursing Innovation (see story p. 16). The Harold Alford Foundation kicked off this campaign with a $1.5 million challenge gift and Dr. Jeanne Donlevy Arnold '83 (Hon. '17) of the Board of Trustees stepped forward with a $2 million leadership gift.

The Sciences program experienced significant changes with the renovation of several laboratories and the receipt of a $647,000 grant from the National Science Foundation for the Science Scholars Program that will bring 18 new STEM majors to the College (see story p. 3).

Athletics

The College completed and blessed the long-awaited first lighted collegiate turf field and track in southern Maine. The Putnam Family's $200,000 Light-the-Way Challenge initiated a campaign for the lights, a fundraising campaign with broad participation that met and surpassed its goal, raising over $414,000 (see story p. 24–p27).

As part of the College's agritourism initiative, the Stone Barn hosted several farm-to-table dinners and dozens of community and private events this season. For more information: www.stonebarnmaine.com. Photo: Tonee Hebert.

Mission-Aligned Businesses

The plan for sustaining the future of Saint Joseph's includes the strategy of developing clusters that combine new educational programming with enterprises that achieve net positive revenue. We refer to these initiatives as our "mission-aligned businesses." These initiatives have been carefully designed to draw upon the College's greatest assets—our expansive lakeside campus and intellectual capital, while aligning with areas promising economic growth that supports Maine's new economy. These new endeavors focus on three areas—sustainable agriculture, aging, and hospitality. Over time, revenue from these clusters will contribute to institutional overhead and, along with other growing revenues; help reduce the College's dependence on tuition revenue from 92% to 85%.

For example, the College has launched The Stone Barn at Sebago Lake, an exciting new indoor and outdoor venue located on the College's farm. The restoration of the barn and its development as an agritourism center offers a new place for building community. The Stone Barn has hosted large and small gatherings such as a reception of the 250 thought leaders who are "Shaping Maine," our series of farm-to-fork dinners, weddings, family celebrations, and College events. College staff manage these events, provide employment opportunities for students, increase our profile in the community, support the local food economy, and deliver new revenue to the College.

The Institute for Local Food Systems Innovation expresses our shared Mercy mission to better our community while caring for Earth in sustainable ways. Our strategic plan identified local, sustainable food production and distribution as one of the areas where our skills as educators, as conveners, and as advocates for the environment, positioned us to address some of Maine's most pressing economic and workforce preparation needs.

The Institute will encompass five enterprises—a food manufacturing incubator, a hydroponic farm, a traditional crop and livestock farm, an agri-tourism center, and a hub for delivering workforce development training in a number of key areas. We are excited to announce that federal and corporate partners have joined us in generously supporting this goal of greater sustainable food production and security in Maine.

The Economic Development Administration (EDA) has given the College a $1.9 million matching grant for the development of the Institute for Local Foods Systems Innovation.

Organic Nutrition, Inc. has donated $750,000 toward the match for the EDA grant to support the creation of its hydroponic farm.

Hannaford Charitable Foundation donated $500,000 toward the EDA grant match and to create the Hannaford Food Venture Center within the Institute for Local Food Systems Innovation (ILFSI).

The College's strategic plan, "Sustaining the Promise," is both a plan for the future and a promise that everything that we are doing today will sustain Saint Joseph's for the future. In the next year we will take further steps to develop our Institute for Integrative Aging, a center for research, education, and community-centered care for older adults.

The value of MAB initiatives reaches far beyond finances, however. Our undergraduate students and community-based learners will have access to new experiential education opportunities on campus in these three clusters associated with economic growth in our region.

Thank You to the Generous Donors who Supported the College in 2016-2017

WESTBROOK COMES ON STRONG AGAIN

5K Race Raises $20,000 for Matthew Rairdon '13 Memorial Nursing Scholarship | BY JEAN MAGINNIS

Nearly 400 runners— from toddlers to seniors— took over the streets of Westbrook, Maine in July to run the fourth annual Westbrook Strong 5K to benefit the Matthew Rairdon '13 Memorial Nursing Scholarship at Saint Joseph's College. The tally at the end of the day set a record of $20,088 raised and added to the scholarship endowment. Westbrook Strong is the result of the efforts of the extended Rairdon family, volunteers from all over the Westbrook community, and generous sponsorships from local businesses.

Matthew's parents, Laurie and Gary Rairdon P'13, visited campus this fall to meet this year's recipients, Brianna Frank '19 and Brittney Arsenault '19.

Laurie described, "There are no words that can adequately express what this means to our family. It feels like a 'Love Run'—this is an environment that has a goal of celebrating his life and contributing to his legacy rather than winning the race...The number of people and companies that came together speaks volumes about the generosity of people."

Mark your calendars for the next Westbrook Strong 5K on July 14, 2018! This fun event helps grow nursing scholarships for the largest group of students at the College.

To donate to the Matthew Rairdon '13 Memorial Nursing Endowment, please visit www.sjcme.edu/donate.
